The dead, which filled to overflowing the morgues of the little town. are in many instances so frightfully mangled that identification is almost impossible. The engine of the express train ripped its way through the two day coaches in the rear, killing instantly every one in them; plowed on through half of a steel Pullman, throwing the sleeping car off the track, and then came to a standstill with the green carpet of the Pullman flung about its pilot. The engineer who is blamed by the aung on Track Waiting For Stalled | thorities for the accident jumped before the crash came. He sat on a way the wrecking crews at work.

> Loaded With Excursionists. The Buffalo limited left New York icaded with pasengers bound for resorts up state. She left Elmira with Engineer Jack Dennison at the throttle of the first of the two heavy engines that were to bring her up the G:bson cut to Corning. A heavy fog overhung the valley of the peaceful little Chemung river, along whose banks the big engines were rolling, and Dennison, from his cab window. train lengths down the track. At the Gibson Narrows the click of the semaphore arm warned Dennison that there was trouble ahead. Conductor Horace Staple from Binghamton ran up the track to find a disabled freight train a short distance ahead of the Lackawanna flyer, standing still, in distress. She had a drawhead broken

In the meantime the Buffalo limited stood behind her one engine for so long a period that the passengers sprawled out across the uncomfortable benches of the day coaches in the rear and began to wonder what was keeping them. They must have been in the fog by the river bank for 10 minutes when George Reynolds went out on the back platform to smoke. His wife remained in the car. As he looked back into the smother he heard high up the clicking semaphore dropping a protecting arm behind the standing train. Mr. Reynolds says he saw no flagman. As Mr. Reynolds flung away hic cigaret, out of the gray over his head he glimpsed a flying smokestack. It was a few feet away when he jumped sideways from the platform and went rolling down the embankment, unscatched. Ten minutes later Mr. Reynolds was running up and down beside the mass of splinters, steel and broken glass begging rescuers to save the life of his wife pinned beneath tons of wreckage.

ARMY IS HEADED FOR SONORA

Will Transfer Insurgent Activities to State Hitherto Untouched by War and Where Rich Ranches Are Expected to Yield Rich Booty-Left Few Men In Trenches to Cover Retreat of Army to Line of Northwestern Railway.

Chihuahua, July 5. - The Mexican rebels were put to rout at the battle of Bachimba, and are now in hasty retreat to the north of Juarez, their present objective point. This, however, will probably only serve as their headquarters, as Orozco, their leader, declares the campaign will be transferred at once to Sonora, and the only way left open to the rebels to reach that rich and prosperous state is through Juarez.

The Mexico Northwestern railroad runs west from Chihuahua almost to the Sonora line and then runs north to Juarez, and would have been used in the retreat, but this line was cut by the federals Tuesday night when they burned a big bridge between Chihuahua and Madera. Now the only way open to the rebels in their efforts to reach Sonora is by train to Juarez and then from Juarez south by train over the northern division of the Mexican Northwestern to Casas Grandes. From Casas Grandes, to which point Orozco transferred many of his records and all his prisoners early in the week, the march will be made westward to Sonora.

As they come north on the Mexican Central the rebels will destroy all bridges, and it will take the federals a month to repair the track and follow. Meantime, Orozco plans to have captured the entire state of Sonora, which contains but few more than 1.000 federals all told.

In Sonora the rebels will find a state as yet unharmed by war and looting, which has many rich plantations to furnish food for man and Troops Ordered to Move. San Antonio, Tex., July 5. - The third squadron of the Third United States cavalry, Troops I, K, L and M, received orders from Washington to 'pack up." This to the soldiers means they will be rushed to El Paso, opposite Juarez. Fighting at Juarez seems at best only a few hours away, and that will spell damage to Americans on this side of the line.

Declares Andrew Forced to Resign In Spite of Earnest Pleadings.

Lancaster, Mass., July 5 .- Follow ing a day spent in witnessing a historic pageant and reading telegrams from all parts of the country, Frankin MacVeagh, secretary of the United States treasury, dictated a lengthy statement to the press giving his side of the controversy with Dr. A Piatt Andrew, who resigned as assistant secretary of the treasury. The statement in part is as follows:

"Mr. Andrew says he resigned because of the conditions in the treasury department, of which he disapproves. He did not resign voluntarfly but was asked to resign and asked repeatedly, and he used every effort and influence possible to get the request for his resignation withdrawn.

Mr. MacVeagh then goes into the details as to his resignation. This, in substance, was that after Mr. Andrew's return from Chicago the secretary requested his resignation before he tendered it.

Weybrecht to Probe Death

Columbus, O., July 5.—Adjutant General Webrecht will make a prompt investigation of the murder of Robert N. Strong, 23, of the United States training ship Dorothea, used by the Cleveland brigade, who was knocked overboard and drowned several days ago. Frank C. Zuber, 28, machinist's mate of the United States navy, on duty on the ship, is charged with the murder.

Belleville, N. J., July 5. - In full view of 20,000 persons gathered in Hillside park, near here, Tom Moore, who has done parachute drops at the park for the past five seasons, fell from the bar of the parachute and was gashed to death 1,200 feet below. He had been sitting on the bar of the parachute and in some way lost his balance. Before the ascent he had refused to put on the life belt.

William Thaller, manager of the park, saw that Moore had no life belt on and he remonstrated with him. Moore laughed and said it wasn't necessary. Atlantic City, N. J., July 5 .- Belief that the body of Melvin Vaniman commander of the dirigible Akron, which exploded in midair, killing him and his crew of four, has been dislodged by dynamite explosions made by divers and has been carried out to sea, became general here when a party of yachtsmen pulled the entire prow of the "car" to the surface. They found the steering gear and the seat used by the navigator, but no trace of the body.

MOSQUITO EXTERMINATION.

Mosquitoes can be—indeed, are being—eliminated from human experience in the United States. The "Jersey mosquito" is not the exclusive property of that commonwealth alone; it breeds in the salt-water marshes all the way from Massachusetts to Florida, wherever a fresh-water stream dilutes the ocean saltiness sufficiently to attract the mosquito. Mosquitoes of the salt-marsh group are not disease-breeding, however, though more intensely annoying than others. The Anopheles, which spreads malaria, and the Stegomyia, which conveys yellow fever, propagate in fresh water, in stagnant pools, even in standing water in houses. The greater number of species seldom travel more than a few hundred yards from their breeding places and, away from salt marshes, most places are locally infested; these facts place the problem of mosquito extermination squarely before the individual householder and the community immediately interested.

Most mosquitoes-certainly those of the anopheles tribe, in which the female of the species is far more deadly than the male—are active only after dark. To rid a house of them, one must fumigate with pyrethrum powder or some other substance that will make a dense smoke, taking care that no mosquitoes are allowed to lurk in remote places to which the fumes have not access. A pound of pyrethrum is necessary for every thou sand cubic feet of interior space. Screens, unless absolutely tight, with a mesh of twenty to the inch, are useless against mosquitoes.

According to The Journal of the American Medical Association, the only means of permanently preventing mosquitoes is the destruction of their breeding-places, which may be anywhere that water can accumulate and stand for ten days or more. It is very well to drain marshes, ponds, fountains and wet places in lawns and gardens; but extermination will not be thorough and effective unless one realizes that no body of water can be too small for a mosquito nursery. Myriads may breed in puddles by the roadside; in little-used horse-troughs; in chicken-pans in poultry-yards; in water-cups standing on the frames of grindstones; in water that accumulates in fur- urday. rows in gardens or fields, especially in clayey soil; in waterpitchers in unused guest-rooms; in vases in which water has not frequently been changed; in discarded tin cans in back yards; in sewer catch-basins—in fact, in any place where half a pint of water is allowed to stand. Since mosquitoes breed Friday and probably Saturday, ex- ington avenue. only in standing water, to eliminate them it is necessary simply to find and to drain or to oil all the possible breeding places.

The city of Hartsville, S. C., little as to size, but big in enterprise, has for several years past annually employed measures which other communities may well emulate. Its board of health first distributed to all householders circulars pointing out the dangers of mosquitoes and recommending screens and constant supervision of premises to prevent breeding. Then the council surveyed the entire city, drained low places where rain-water accumulated and made weekly inspections of all premises and ditches in town, putting kerosene regularly on any water that could not be drained or emptied (an ounce of kerosene for each 15 square feet of water surface). Most of the breeding-places were found in back yards. Dr. W. Egleston, the health commissioner, reports that malaria, though very prevalent a decade ago, is now a practically negligible disease. The inhabitants of Hartsville, it is said, now sit on their unscreened porches in the evenings with no discomfort from mosquitoes. If every community in the country would follow the example of Hartsville, the mosquito problem would soon cease to vex us. 通付鐵門鐵 為

MOSQUITO EXTERMINATION.

Mosquitoes can be-indeed, are being-eliminated from human experience in the United States. The "Jersey mosquito" is not the exclusive property of that commonwealth alone; it breeds in the salt-water marshes all the way from Massachusetts to Florida, wherever a fresh-water stream dilutes the ocean saltiness sufficiently to attract the mosquito. Mosquitoes of the salt-marsh group are not disease-breeding, however, though more intensely annoying than others. The Anopheles, which spreads malaria, and the Stegomyia, which conveys yellow fever, propagate in fresh water, in stagnant pools, even in standing water in houses. The greater number of species seldom travel more than a few hundred yards from their breeding places and, away from salt marshes, most places are locally infested; these facts place the problem of mosquito extermination squarely before the individual householder and the community immediately interested.

Most mosquitoes—certainly those of the anopheles tribe, in which the female of the species is far more deadly than the male—are active only after dark. To rid a house of them, one must fumigate with pyrethrum powder or some other substance that will make a dense smoke, taking care that no mosquitoes are allowed to lurk in remote places to which the fumes have not access. A pound of pyrethrum is necessary for every thousand cubic feet of interior space. Screens, unless absolutely tight, with a mesh of twenty to the inch, are useless against mosquitoes.

According to The Journal of the American Medical Association, the only means of permanently preventing mosquitoes is the destruction of their breeding-places, which may be anywhere that water can accumulate and stand for ten days or more. It is very well to drain marshes, ponds, fountains and wet places in lawns and gardens; but extermination will not be thorough and effective unless one realizes that no body of water can be too small for a mosquito nursery. Myriads may breed in puddles by the roadside; in little-used horse-troughs; in chicken-pans in poultry-yards; in water-cups standing on showers Friday and probably Satthe frames of grindstones; in water that accumulates in fur- urday. rows in gardens or fields, especially in clayer soil; in waterpitchers in unused guest-rooms; in vases in which water has not frequently been changed; in discarded tin cans in back yards; in sewer catch-basins—in fact, in any place where half a pint of water is allowed to stand. Since mosquitoes breed only in standing water, to eliminate them it is necessary simply to find and to drain or to oil all the possible breeding places.

The city of Hartsville, S. C., little as to size, but big in enterprise, has for several years past annually employed measures which other communities may well emulate. Its board of health first distributed to all householders circulars pointing out the dangers of mosquitoes and recommending screens and constant supervision of premises to prevent breeding. Then the council surveyed the entire city, drained low places where rain-water accumulated and made weekly inspections of all premises and ditches in town, putting kerosene regularly on any water that could not be drained or emptied (an ounce of kerosene for each 15 square feet of water surface). Most of the breeding-places were found in back yards. Dr. W. Egleston, the health commissioner, reports that malaria, though very prevalent a decade ago, is now a practically negligible disease. The inhabitants of Hartsville, it is said, now sit on their unscreened porches in the evenings with no discomfort from mosquitoes. If every community in the country would follow the example of Hartsville, the mosquito problem would soon cease to vex us. 九月四日的 点

Man Carves Out His Own Destiny

By Frank Crane

Doing clears the mind. Physical activity has a peculiar luminous effect upon the judgment. The soundest views of life come not from the pulpit or the professional chair but from the workshop.

To saw the plank or nail down a shingle, to lav a stone square or paint a house evenly, to run a locomotive or raise a good crop of corn, somehow reacts upon the intelligence, reaching the very inward essential every night during the week. cell of wisdom; provided always the worker is brave, not afraid of his own conclusions, and does not hand his thinking over to some guesser with a large bluff.

Doing makes religion. All the religion that is of any account is what we thrash out with our own hands, suffer out with our own hearts | Want ads are profitable. and find out with our own visions.

Doing creates faith. Doubt comes from Sundays and other idle hours. The only people who believe the ten commandments are those who do them. Those who believe the world is growing better are they that are trying to make it grow better.

Doing brings joy. The sweetest of joys is the joy of accomplishment. Make love and you will feel love. Quit making love and you will doubt love. Be kind, steadily and persistently, and you will believe in kindness. Be unclean and you will soon sneer at anybody's claim to virtue.

So a man has his own destiny, his own creed, his own internal peace, his own nobility in his hands-literally in his hands. For all the worthwhile wisdom or goodness you have in your head and heart was soaked ap from your hands.

Sail out of the reach of me

They fade so quick to the skyline

And many are lost in the deep, But some come back from their outward track

And into my vision creep.

My soul is tortured by the wrecks Where gallant sailors die; But I love the song of the happy

When the pleasure boats come by

From yonder ship a brother speaks, I see my father smile.

Across the sea they call to me And the years turn back awhile

With sudden ache of empty arms I stand on the shore and pray That the ship may last till the night

Metropolis of China Most Cosmopolitan in Republic.

Tourist Tells of His Experience In Shopping District - Shopkeepers Betray No Eagerness to Show or Sell Their Wares.

Hong Kong.-Many phases of life in Hong Kong strike the visitor from the western world as curious. In Hong Kong women work just like the men; they drag huge loads harnessed like horses, carry heavy weights strung over their shoulders as yokels carry milk cans in the country.

They stagger up the Peak for about 100 yards, when they lay down their burden, go back, pick a new lot up, carry this up to the first dumping place, then take the first load on a few yards further, and so on, all under a blazing sun. All the bricklaying, road mending, coaling, etc., is done equally by both sexes, but perhaps the most curious sight is to see a woman straining at an oar or at the steerage of a sampan.

The cosmopolitan aspect of the place impresses one. Walking down a street one day with a Canadian, a visitor Germans, a Parsee stood at the door of his shop, a Japanese girl followed which sat a Spanish maiden.

There were, of course, Chinese scat tered all over the place as usual, s that there were within a hundred yards of one another at least nine nationalities represented. It would be hard to name a country which could not produce its type in Hong Kong.

It is an interesting experience to go shopping in the Chinese quarters in Hong Kong. The other day a friend wanted a piece of blackwood furniture for a wedding present, and we ransacked some of the more likely shops to find it and then interviewed the proprietors

Chinese merchants in Hong Kong betray no eagerness to sell, but puff slowly and sourly at their tremendous pipes containing one small pinch of tobacco, or perhaps opium, and allow you to pull about the articles exposed for sale as much as you please-it save them trouble. Some of them speak practically no English, but they usually have a small son who has been educated at Queen's college in Hong Kong, a large Anglo-Chinese boys' school, and he acts as interpreter.

The more you bargain the more lefeel you are boring him to death, and stammer apologines, which he accepts to Have Resulted From Shipment of Corpse of Victim to That City Recently, and An Investigation is On Foot — Spread

By heroic treatment it is now believed that the life of little Elmer Truitt, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Truitt, of near Bloomingburg, and a brother to Glenn Truitt, the lad who died of a very malignant form of diphtheria, can be saved, as 15,000 units of antitoxin have been administered and the lad, while hovering between life and death, is thought to be somewhat better with a fair chance of recovery.

still hold to his belief that the efforts of physicians and the administration of medicine should not be permitted in cases of illness, and only gave in to employ a physician when it became known that the law would be brought to bear upon him to compel him to do so.

The remains of Glenn Truitt whose death brought about the shocking condition existing in the Truitt home, were interred in the Bloomingburg cemetery at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, the services being very short and of a private nature in order to prevent a spread of the highly contagious disease of which the lad died.

Sealers To Tell How Public Is Defrauded

the people of the state by way of reducing the high cost of living will be held in Columbus, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, July 17, 18 and 19, 1912. This will be the third Annual Convention of the State, County and City Sealers and Deputy Sealers of Weights and Measures. In just one year since the state has been provided with funds to carry out the work of the department, sixty-five counties have already secured standards, which have been tested and sealed by the state department, and deputy sealers in these counties are now at work inspecting and sealing scales, weights and measures, wherever they are used or maintained for use. Thousands of scales, weights and measures have been found to be incorrect. In some few instances the dealer was the loser, but in nearly all cases the purchaser was the loser. In some instances measuring devises were constructed with the intention of defrauding the purchaser.

Conditions met with by the sealers in their work will be one of the features of this convention and fice. The law makes it his duty to fraudulent measures will be devised,

> In the short time that the state department has been organized it has been demonstrated that the work of correcting conditions with reference to weighing and measuring devises is one of the most important in this state. Ohio is among the pioneer states in the renewed interest which is being taken all over the country in this work. Efforts are now making for uniform laws in the various states and for a thoroughly workable national law on the subject of weights and meas-

Foot Crushed Hydrophobia In Ohio And Its Heavy Cost

State Board of Health, relating to

Rabies is a specific infectious disease, common to man and all mammals, caused by an organism too small to be seen with the microscope, as it will pass through a Barkfeld filter. (Candle V.)

Although all animals are susceptible to the disease it is transmitted to man in about 95 per cent of cases by the dog, while the cat comes next with about o per cent. The remaining 2 per cent are the results of wounds inflicted by rabid horses, cattle, swine, etc.

The disease never originates spontaneously, but always has its origin in a previous case. The dog is its principal carrier. The disease is acquired by the bite of a rabid animal, or by its saliva or tissues containing the virus coming in contact with a recent abrasion or wound. Scratches inflicted by a rabid animal are also dangerous, as it often licks its paws.

The virus then multiplies in the nerves, and slowly travels up them. without altering their function, until the central nervous system is reached, when symptoms appear.

dangerous than single ones.

peared, and where rigid quarantine Hawaii and Porto Rico. laws against dogs are enforced) and in the Scandinavian countres and Great Britain where it has been practically wiped out by rigidly enyear. At one time it was common in these countries.

No part of the United States is exempt, although it is most common in the states east of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, and in those touching their western banks, and in Oklahoma and Texas. In the far west it is still rare.

By writing to the county auditors of Ohio I have obtained the number of persons bitten by rabid animals, who made claim for reimbursement from the various counties during the year from Dec. 1, 1910 to Dec. 1, 1911, inclusive.

Excluding Pike and Lawrence counties, from which I have received no reply, the auditors returned 281 persons as making this claim, at a total cost of $27,358.36, an average of $97.36 per case. These figures do not include the city of Cleveland, where 56 persons were reported by Dr. Eddy, of the Cleveland Board of Health, as bitten. In addi tion to these cases, I have collected 73 cases where persons were bitten during this period, who either did not take treatment, made no claim upon the county, or the claim was not yet acted upon by the county commissioners up to Dec. 1, 1911 The sources of this information were personal knowledge, reports from county auditors and commissioners and from the laboratory of the State Board of Health. Thus we have records of 410 persons having been bitten in Ohio last year. As many rabid animals bite sev eral persons, and still more do not bite at all, this total of 410 does not definitely indicate the number of rabid animals in the state during this period. For example one dog was traced from Chillicothe, where it bit its owner, to Good Hope, Fayette County, over a route of 46 miles, biting four other people, two horses two steers, a cow and her calf, eight hogs and four dogs. Almost all the animals died from the disease.

I have heard of five deaths in man from the disease during this period, one in Akron, two in Ravenna, and two in Columbus. In addition to those deaths due directly to the disease, I know of one case where a man developed symptoms strongly suggestive of rables after having een bitten in the face by a rabid dog. A diagnosis of rables was made by the attending physician, and the man believing that he had it, shot himself.

From an economic standpoint, the disease is a serious problem. Dr. Paul Fischer, state veterinarian, es-

Imports of duty-free merchandise never reached as much as 100 million dollars prior to 1873. The principal articles forming the 1 billion dollars' worth of dutyfree merchandise entering continental United States during the fiscal year 1912 are, according to the latest reports of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, food stuffs and manufacturers' materials. The food stuffs entering without payment of duty include about 120 million dollars worth of coffee, approximately 35 milion dollars' worth of tea and cacao, over 20 million dollars' worth of fruits and nuts, 5 million dollars' worth of spices, and about 90 million dollars' worth of sugar from Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines. Dies Many Times

George Curry, Representative at large from New Mexico, has read acounts of his own death three times. He grew so accustomed to being regarded as dead that if he were to pick up the morning paper at the breakfast table now and see his own obituary he wouldn't even attach enough importance to the item to mention it to his family.

The first time Curry was killed was back in '87. He went from New Mexico to Trinidad to play a game of base ball, and while there shared a hotel room with a stranger who was about to set out into the wilds to buy cattle. This stranger got up to make an early start, and by mistake put on Curry's vest. The next day he was shot and robbed, or rebbed and shot, out in the hills, and the only thing to identify him by was a letter in his vest pocket addressed to George Curry. The Coroner at Trinidad then and there held an inquest, at which he adjudged George N. Curry dead. That news was sent out by the Associated press, and when Curry got off the train on his return to New Mexico the first people he saw was two rival undertakers who had come

Just 20 years later, when Curry was inaugurated Governor of New Mexico Territory, the Coroner who had adjudged him dead journeyed to Santa Fe from Colorado just for the satisfaction of seeing a dead man made Governor.

On another occasion Curry was supposed to have been killed in a fight on the plains, and his obituary was flashed over the country.

Then, at the battle of San Mateo in the Phillippines, where General Lawton was killed, all Curry's company perished and he was supposed to have been included. But the Philippinos liked Curry, and they purposely allowed him to escape. He had to go without food for two or three days, but he merely tightened his belt and kept on his way,

Curry was at one time an outlaw. When he was a cowboy he got into a row with the Territorial Government over some land grants, and a company of milita was sent out to arrest him. But Curry didn't propose to be arrested, as it was much pleasanter in the mountains at that season than in jail, and he and his cowboy friends chased the milita away. When he got around to it Curry went down and allowed himself to be arrested, and received his mail at the county bastile for a season, but such was his personal popularity that in a trifle over a year after he got out of jail he was elected County Clerk. And he has been holding one place after another until he broke into Washington as Representative-at-Large. - New York Press.

For the information of the public it may be well here to state that every county auditor is also the be paid a salary fixed by the county commissioners. The state department almost daily receives inquiries and complaints from various sections of the state about violations of the weights and measures laws. The people would do well to take the county or city sealer and have the same sealed, as the law makes it a misdemeanor to use any such devise unless it has been sealed. The state department and the county and city departments need the cooperation of the public and the question how best to secure this co-operation will also be one of the features of the convention of weights and measures officials.

rables in Ohio:

Rabies is a specific infectious disease, common to man and all mammals, caused by an organism too small to be seen with the microscope, as it will pass through a Barkfeld filter. (Candle V.)

Although all animals are susceptto man in about 95 per cent of cases are: Robert H. King, 39, real estate by the dog, while the cat comes broker of Pittsburg; William Cooper, next with about o per cent. The remaining 2 per cent are the results of wounds inflicted by rabid horses, cattle, swine, etc.

The disease never originates spontaneously, but always has its origin in a previous case. The dog is its principal carrier. The disease is acquired by the bite of a rabid animal, or by its saliva or tissues containing the virus coming in contact with a dangerous, as it often licks its paws. I have collected. 73 cases where persons were bitten during this period, who either did not take treatment, made no claim upon the county, or the claim was not yet acted upon by the county dollars. commissioners up to Dec. 1, 1911. The sources of this information were personal knowledge, reports from county auditors and commissioners and from the laboratory of the State Board of Health. Thus we have records of 410 persons having been bitten in Ohio last year.

As many rabid animals bite sev eral persons, and still more do not bite at all, this total of 410 does not definitely indicate the number of rabid animals in the state during this period. For example one dog was traced from Chillicothe, where it bit its owner, to Good Hope, Fayette County, over a route of 46 miles, biting four other people, two horses, two steers, a cow and her calf, eight hogs and four dogs. Almost all the animals died from the disease.

I have heard of five deaths in man from the disease during this period, one in Akron, two in Ravenna, and two in Columbus. In addition to those deaths due directly to the disease. I know of one case where a man developed symptoms strongly suggestive of rables after having been bitten in the face by a rabid dog. A diagnosis of rables was made by the attending physician, and the man believing that he had it, shot himself.

From an economic standpoint, the disease is a serious problem. Dr. Paul Fischer, state veterinarian, es-

Dr. Mcl. Phillips, of Columbus, re- | timates the total value of live stock cently read the following before the lost by the disease in his state, during the year, at between $30,000.00 and $40,000.00, or a total loss of $65,000.00.

Pyeblo Fireman Uses Head as Offensive Weapon and Officers of Law Rush to Ring and Declare Fight Over In Ninth Round - Referee Says Johnson Also Guilty of Foul-Ing Tactics, but Gives Him Decision For Landing Most Blows,

Las Vegas, N. M., July 5. - The colored race, as represented by Jack Johnson, retains the title to the keavyweight championship of the world, but not because Johnson proved himself the better man in his fight with Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, but for the reason that Flynn lost his head when he had the big black fellow on the run and made it necessary for the police to jump into the ring in the ninth round.

Referee Ed Smith then gave the fight to Johnson, not because of the ouling tactics of Flynn, but because he figured that the black had outpointed the challenger in the rounds that had gone before.

Flynn, boring in at every opportunity, was hammering at the stomach of the champion. And his blows were telling, too. And beginning with the seventh round the black began to hold. The smile disappeared from visage. The champion held throughout the eighth. But Flynn, whose strong point has never been calmness, seeing a possible victory, began to fight with his head as well as with the strength of his powerful arms and shoulders. He began to butt. after time. This was the situation him. when the ninth round dawned. Flynn bored in and then he lost his head, and instead of fighting he renewed his butting. Suddenly there was a commetion. The police were entering the ring. And, once within the ropes, the fight was stopped.

Up to the Referee.

Pandemonium reigned. No one knew what had happened. The police the referee to make some decision. He lifted the arm of the black man. The thousands knew that Johnson was still champion of the world. But it was some time before quiet could be restored and the reasons for the decison could be announced. Then Referee Smith said that he did not give the decision to Johnson because of the foul tactics of Flynn, as the white man had transgressed no more than the negro, and that while the butting of the Pueblo fireman could be seen, the holding of Johnson was just as truly an infraction of the rules. He held that the men some time ago agreed that if the fight was stopped for any reason that the victor should be the man who was leading at the time. There was no question but that John-

Referee Ed Smith then gave the fight to Johnson, not because of the fouling tactics of Flynn, but because be figured that the black had outpointed the challenger in the rounds that had gone before.

Flynn, boring in at every opportunity, was hammering at the stomach i of the champion. And his blows were seventh round the black began to whose strong point has never been calmness, seeing a possible victory, began to fight with his head as well arms and shoulders. He began to butt. after time. This was the situation him. when the ninth round dawned. Flynn tored in and then he lost his head, and instead of fighting he renewed his butting. Suddenly there was a commetion. The police were entering the ring. And, once within the ropes, the fight was stopped. Up to the Referce.

m reigned. No one in this vicinity. knew what had happened. The police taid the fight could not continue. It was up to the referee to make some decision. He lifted the arm of the black man. The thousands knew that Johnson was still champion of the world. But it was some time before quiet could be restored and the leasons for the decison could be anbounced. Then Referee Smith said that he did not give the decision to Johnson because of the foul tactics of Flynn, as the white man had transgressed no more than the negro, and that while the butting of the Pueblo fireman could be seen, the bolding of Johnson was just as truly an infraction of the rules. He held that the men some time ago agreed that if the fight was stopped for any reason that the victor should be the man who was leading at the time. re was no question but that John.

LONG HIT CAUSE OF STRIKE

Belleville League Threatened With Dissolution Because Freight Train Carried Away Ball.

Belleville (Ont.) is confronted with a baseball situation that the heads of the Clerks' Junior league declare is more difficult of solution than that which arose in the American league when Ty Cobb smote a spectator in New York.

All the members of teams in the Belleville league have served notice they will strike, just like the Tigers did, if Henry Ebel plays in any more

Ebel is the pinch hitter of the Married Men's nine. The trouble arose in Sunday's game, when along toward the end Ebel took a good healthy swat at the sphere and it sailed over the heads of the infield and outfield. A passing freight train, with a door of a box car carelessly left open, made a clean pickup of the ball and carried it far away. The game was called for two reasons. It was the only ball available

Break Records On New Track

Several Motorcycle Records Smashed at Columbus Meet.

Columbus, O., July 5.-Smash went motorcycle records at the festive opening of the Columbus motordrome and the day marked the beginning of advanced racing under new conditions, as the Columbus track at present is the only one of its kind in the world. The 18,000 people in the afternoon and 12,000 at night were exuberant over the speed demonstrations, which were not marred by a mond Seymour of Los Angeles and Eddie Hasha of Dallas, Tex., both of whom set the mile mark for the new drome at 37 1-5 seconds, a time 3-5 traveled by Seymour, who held the

Other records lowered were for three miles, four miles and five miles. The marks were placed at 1:59, 2:33 and 3:13. Hasha made the four-mile record, wresting the championship for that distance from Seymour, the bolder of all marks from one to ten miles. Seymour lowered his old record for the three and five miles and gave a lusty battle for the intermediate distance, but lost, although his speed averaged 94 miles an hour.
